After I graduated, I immediately started a new job and can really put the Euromaster-theory into practice. In addition, I can even advise my colleagues in their work. If you want a master that benefits your future, apply for Euromaster.

“

The Euromaster was a great way to learn about the institutions in depth, while meeting people at the Commission and various other industrial, non-profit, and academic organizations. I particularly enjoyed how professors combined theory with practical examples, and academic and professional experiences, to deliver more informed lectures. Most valuable are the specializations: I was able to study at the intersection of economics and security, paving the way to breakdown silos in my professional career.
